Career Services Assignment 1 – LinkedIn Setup

Write 3 things you learned from reading How to Effectively Use LinkedIn in the Job Search

- Connecting with people and messaging them for a job is not the way to go. I want to build genuine relationships with people and let the job come on its own.
- Posting on LinkedIn is a good way to build a presence. I want to post about the wins, the challenges, the new things that I am learning, and the projects that I am working on. I always want to make sure that I sound excited and passionate about what I am doing.
- Contributing to the site. Connecting, posting, liking, and commenting on other people's posts are great ways to contribute to the site but I can also create a blog about my career change journey.

About

I am someone that does not get tied down by problems. I like to focus on the solutions and ways to improve and move forward.

I am a great leader, I love to learn new things and I love to teach what I learn to others and develop new leaders. Whenever I am educating someone I want to make sure that they understand how to pass on the knowledge to the person they will have to teach in the future.

Throughout my work experience, I've been able to work with many different backgrounds of people from young to old. In each position that I've held, I've always looked at myself as a mentor or a mentee to those that crossed my path. There is something that can be taken away from every relationship in life.

For the past 7 years, I have worked for Instacart. I started out as a driver and was quickly promoted up the chain. In my last three years, I was a Site Manager overseeing the in-store operations at 15 locations. As part of that role, I was responsible for recruiting & hiring new employees for both the shopper role & the shift lead role, conducting remote training, developing leaders within the team, collaborating with retail partners to solve customer problems, and maintaining a good relationship between Instacart employees & the retail partner employees. Due to the shift with many significant companies, including Instacart, going in a tech direction I decided to make a career change & get certified as a full-stack developer.

In my spare time, I am a health & wellness coach, helping other first-time moms to take control of their new responsibilities through a healthy routine that is centered around self-love, fitness & nutrition.

So I've decided to make a career change & jump into the tech world as a software developer. Those that know me, know that I have been around computers all my life. My dad has been building them since I was in elementary school. I was always excited to learn about the different internal parts & what he was doing with them. When he finally built me one of my own, I would sit on the computer for hours going through every folder and file just exploring what a computer could do. As I grew older and I would see women on TV like Penelope, from "Criminal Minds", solving crimes from behind the computer and I always thought "I want her job." I was amazed at how fast she could type and I taught myself to type fast and correctly just so that I would be able to type like her.

When I got into college, back in 2007, I knew exactly what I wanted to do but there was no major for it at the time. My advisor suggested that I major in Crime & Justice Studies & minor in computer science. So that's what I did. But things quickly became hard & instead of sticking it out, I dropped the minor to keep my grades up in my major classes. Don't get me wrong, I absolutely love the career path that I chose at that time. My problem-solving skills, my leadership skills, my radical candor, my empathy, and my research skills; all of those skills come from that career path. Looking back, I know what I would have done differently but instead of dwelling on it, I am doing something about it now. I am grateful for this opportunity & I am excited to see where it takes me.
